Park Nicollet Alexander Center

Park Nicollet Alexander Center's tutoring program provides specialized tutoring services to students with any challenge that may limit academic achievement. This includes students with attention deficit disorders, autism spectrum disorders or any type of learning disability, plus students who simply need more help to be successful in school.

We offer services in reading, writing, math, study and organizational skills, and coaching for children with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). Tutoring is conducted one-on-one with trained professionals who are knowledgeable about many types of learning challenges and the most successful strategies for teaching to the needs of students. Placement with tutors is based upon the best match between student needs and tutor specialization.

Payment is required before tutoring services begin. Call for current pricing. Health insurance does not cover tutoring expenses.

Tutoring sessions are offered at multiple Park Nicollet Clinic locations. We offer flexible hours that can be arranged with your tutor.

For more information, call the Academic Tutoring Program coordinator at 952-993-2583. To enroll your child, please complete and return the attached form.
